

Co-designing Inclusive Cities

“Cities have the capability of providing something for everybody, only because, and only when, they are created by everybody.”

Jane Jacobs

Planning A Co-Design Activity
Contributors:
What topics to explore? What are the current challenges, gaps, and opportunities? What is the purpose of exploring this topic?	How to build Trust? What are the objectives of doing this activity? What are the key incentives for participation? What type of information will be collected? How will the privacy and ownership of that information be handled?	What activities to plan? How do these activities help to meet the objectives? Are these activities easily understandable? Are these activities accessible for the participants? Who will facilitate the activities? How?
Who is going to be there? Who should be part of this conversation? Who is currently missing from this conversation? Are there outliers in that community? How will they be included?	How to manage logistics? How will people be informed about this activity? Where will this activity take place? How accessible is it? What accessibility services are needed? How to integrate different cultures/context? What are the costs (e.g. honorarium, food, etc.)?	What to do with the output? How to organize the collected information? How to ensure all contributors are included? How to share the insights? How do you define success?
